

RESOLUTION XIII –BRUNEI DARUSSALAM

THEME : POLITICAL AND SOCIAL RIGHTS

CONCERN : THE ESTABLISHMENT OF AN INTERNATIONAL JUDICIAL ORDER AND THE CREATION OF LAWKEEPERS

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY,

- Saddened by the staggering number of 1.5 billion people betrayed by the justice system of their country, victims of unresolved judicial issues,
- Scandalized by the corruption of the highest French and American judicial authorities where judges abuse their power judges and show bias while remaining unpunished,
- Outraged by the slowness of legal proceedings in certain countries such as Greece and Italy, which last an average of 1.5 year, during which criminals remain unpunished,
- Disheartened by the sense of insecurity felt by the populations due to failing judicial systems and impunity benefiting delinquents, often leading to street justice and societal chaos,
- Accusing the often overloaded judicial systems, unable to judge the crimes and offenses in their country, of acquitting the accused due to lack of resources and leaving them into thin air,
- Adding that impunity of delinquency leads to a vicious circle of recurring misdeeds and that a too lenient judgment leaves room for a high rate of repeated offenses,
- Outlining that the judicial system of Brunei has succeeded with its efficient and impartial but fair judgment in creating a preventive and appropriate system meeting the needs of its population,
- Decides to create a high international judicial authority, independent of the ICC and funded by the UN as well as by international partners and other willing member states, which will help states with insufficient judicial resources ;
- to establish a strict international penal code for all based on deterrence and respecting Human Rights and human dignity, which would set on equal footing the penal codes of all States in the world ;
  - to train and provide to all states judges, prosecutors and other qualified staff, called Lawkeepers, to apply this new code impartially ;
  - that the countries wishing to receive this aid, to expedite procedures and ease their judicial system, agree to comply with the international penal code and the impartial and fair judgments of the Lawkeepers.
